

FACT SHEET

Formerly known as the Tea Planter's Club, Bandarawela Hotel's illustrious origins dates back to the 18th century colonial area when the railway links were constructed, upon which the hotel served as a house for train travellers. The hotel was also a facility for recuperating British soldiers during World War II. Hidden amidst the misty mountains, its prime location overlooking the garden foliage makes it the ideal recluse for all holiday seekers. The hotel combines the very best of hospitality in a unique presentation; looking into every aspect from food to service to its facilities and amenities on offer.

Bandarawela Hotel emanates a touch of rarity to your experience ideal for a truly unique stay.
